From the President and Provost:
UA receives Carnegie engagement designation

We received, Dear Colleagues . . .

. . . some excellent news yesterday. Our efforts in community engagement have been recognized by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching through the awarding of a Community Engagement Classification in both Curricular Engagement and Outreach and Partnerships.

As many of you know, we have made a concerted effort in the last decade to engage communities, including other institutions and industries, in mutually beneficial ways. The classification from Carnegie is an endorsement recognized globally of our excellence at building and sustaining these relationships to the benefit of our students, our University and the communities that we serve across Northeast Ohio.

We are the only public university in Northern Ohio to have earned the Carnegie designation in both Curricular Engagement and Outreach and Partnerships. This is the latest national recognition of our excellence at serving students and the community.

All of you have played a role in our engagement efforts, and we want to take this opportunity to extend to you our gratitude and congratulations for a job well done.
